BREED CONSERVATION

After 43 years in the oil industry, working all over the world, Preston and Sarah Sawyer Neely returned to their part of the family ranch. The Sawyer family has been in the ranching business in Sutton County since the late 1800's when Sarah's grandfather, Edwin E. Sawyer Sr. came from Maine to Texas to seek his fortune.

Uncle Wesley Sawyer, like many ranchers in West Texas, kept Spanish Goats. Upon Wesley's death, his nieces and nephews inherited his ranch and his livestock. Eddie Sawyer, Sarah's brother, managed his father's ranch after his death, developing an interest in the Spanish Goats and began to breed those Spanish goats to bring out their strengths. He used a very respected herd consultant and started culling on undesirable traits. When Angelo State University started a billie performance test, he began sending the Sawyer bucks to the test. Upon the death of Lura Sawyer, the Sawyer ranch and the livestock, including the superior Spanish Goat herd, were divided among the four Sawyer children. With 21 years of selective breeding behind us, we are proud of our progress, and continue to work to improve our herd.

NEELY-SAWYER RANCH

We run between 700 and 800 pure Sawyer Bloodline Spanish nannies. When the kids are weaned, we separate all the buck kids and select the top 125 or so to participate in a on the ranch Performance Test. The primary purpose of the test is to identify which billies have the ability to gain the most weight in their first 9 months of age. The reason for this is because most ranchers/farmers sell their male goats at about 9 months so maximizing their weight by this time maximizes your income. Our billie kids weight gain on test average as high as 0.7 lbs/day. At current pricing that amounts to as much as 35lbs or $140 extra per kid.

For the past several years we have weaned in the pasture a kid crop of 156% to 176% depending on the winter weather. Our nannie kids are for sale shortly after weaning. Our Spanish herd has never been mixed with any other breed. We have 100% pure Spanish goats. We are a certified DNA tested herd.

Other ranchers are recognizing the advantages of Sawyer Bloodline Spanish Goats and have started breeding them for sale. We encourage this spreading the genetics to allow new buyers to find the goats available to them in their area.

THE BEGINNING

GOTTA START SOMEWHERE

VISION

Midwest Buck Sale:

Bringing the breeding community together to learn more about the industry, to raise, buy and sell meat, dairy, and fiber goats.

ENTER TODAY

Entering is easy. The event week offers a variety of educational opportunities for everyone in attendance. While your children learn about selection, preparation and presentation, parents will learn the same things from professors and professionals in the industry.

MISSION

By creating a platform that empowers the goat breeder to learn, grow and shape the market, we are ensuring consumers across the country have access to high-quality, affordable and delicious lean meat, goat dairy and fiber goat products.

To promote the continued improvement in the breeding, raising, and marketing of meat, dairy, and fiber goats and to encourage the pursuit of excellence throughout the livestock and agricultural industries.

To organize and administer, each year, a world-class, national goat event, composed of various public competitions, exhibitions, speakers, and a purebred production sale, that the event enhances interest, encourages participation, and the sharing of ideas and information in the goat livestock industry and by recognizing and rewarding the achievements of breeders and marketers alike.

To include activities that continue encouragement for the youth to pursue careers in the American goat industry and agribusiness fields through events and incentives especially tailored to their interests.

To advance education by providing learning opportunities, as an ongoing part of the Midwest Buck Sale event.

To ensure that the American goat industry grows and adapts to the ever-changing needs of the industry.

To help facilitate the goat breeder in providing a consistent product, share genetics, and learn how to improve the goat across America, to preserve their value as a major income-producing asset for the farmer/rancher.

The Midwest Buck Sale strives to organize and administer, each year, a world-class, national goat event, composed of various public competitions, exhibitions, speakers, and a purebred production sale, that the event enhances interest, encourages participation, and the sharing of ideas and information in the goat livestock industry and by recognizing and rewarding the achievements of breeders and marketers alike.

INTERVIEW

SPEAKERS ALL WEEK

ABOUT THE MIDWEST BUCK SALE

“At this time, the USA has a much larger demand for goat meat than is readily available for consumption. Goat meat is the most consumed meat in the world. The United States imports the largest portion of what is consumed by the population. If meat goat breeders have the opportunity to come together, once a year, to discuss events, ideas, and the needs of the industry, then a more consistent and productive product may be achieved.”

The goat industry is growing and the demand for quality production stock has grown exponentially. Many people purchase stock not really knowing what to buy or lack experience in animal husbandry when getting started. The industry needs one event where meat, dairy, and fiber goat producers may come together to discuss the ideas and needs of the industry.

This event is easily accessed from anywhere across the Nation. The Missouri State Fairgrounds is a historic facility that is in a central location for the United States.

At this time, the USA has a much larger demand for goat meat than is readily available for consumption. Goat meat is the most consumed meat in the world. The United States imports the largest portion of what is consumed by the population. If meat goat breeders have the opportunity to come together, once a year, to discuss events, ideas, and the needs of the industry, then a more consistent and productive product may be achieved.

Strengthen and enhance the production and marketing of goats and goat products in the United States through the improvement of infrastructure, business, resource development and the development of innovative approaches to solve long term problems.

Provide leadership training and education to industry stakeholders.

Assist all segments of the industry in addressing sustainable production and marketing of goats and goat products.

Promote marketing of goats and goat products through an organized method that can measure tangible results.

Enhance the goat industry by coordinating information exchange and seeking mutual understanding and marketing within the industry community.

Event week is always the first Saturday in June each year.

Speakers and learning opportunities are through the week.

Adding the Dairy Goat breeds to the Midwest Buck Sale week has provided an additional opportunity for dairy goat breeders to promote the breeds and products produced in the dairy goat industry. You will want to be there.

The week will be filled with speakers on topics. There will also be an opportunity to learn how to market your farm and coop with others across the country.

There is a host of vendors and professionals that will be there to help breeders on their way to success in raising dairy, fiber, and meat goats for the consumer market. Anything a goat produces is part of the consumer market. There is something for everyone in the goat industry during the week.

This is about building the goat community and bringing the production breeders together, to create a strong market for the goat industry as a whole. Pricing, selling, producing, getting stock to market, and health care are all strong topics to be discussed at the daily round table in the afternoons at 4:00 pm.

Anyone may participate and attend. All are welcome.

ALL ABOUT PRODUCTION GOAT FARMERS BREEDERS

MIDWEST GOAT PRODUCERS COURSE

“This is a full range training program with classes on pasture management, marketing, herd health, nutrition, bio-security, importation, exportation, quality assurance, reproductive care and so much more. The class set also includes hands-on demonstrations and training correctly assessing body condition, selection of stock, along with meeting producers and discussing their successes in business related goat entities.”

Goat producers need concrete business opportunities. With an increased interest in meat goat production, small family farms are becoming more prevalent. Farmers have to find a way to diversify their operations and increase the family farm income. There are alternative and innovative ways to achieve this.

The Midwest Buck Sale event week has continued to improve upon learning opportunities during the event week. With the assistance of Dr. Homero Salinas of Lincoln University and Jennifer Lutes of the University of Missouri, they have developed an extensive multi day Goat Producers Course. Fellow University professional, business professionals in the goat industry and goat production specialists have joined in to help produce this special event.

The main portion of the class is June 1-3, but continues into Saturday, June 4 with breed speakers and samples of goat products produced by Missouri Dairy farms. These professionals have played a leading role in assisting small and minority farmers involved in goat production, both dairy and meat. Our intention is to provide an annual event for new and already established producers the opportunity to access up-to-date, innovative, and accurate information on raising healthy, productive goats.

The annual event is done in cooperation with Lincoln University, USDA, University of Missouri, Missouri Extension and other goat production experts.

This is a full range training program with classes on pasture management, marketing, herd health, nutrition, bio-security, importation, exportation, quality assurance, reproductive care and so much more. The class set also includes hands-on demonstrations and training correctly assessing body condition, selection of stock, along with meeting producers and discussing their successes in business related goat entities.

These types of training classes are important for the goat industry to survive, thrive, and grow. Whether you are a dairy, meat, or fiber goat producer, all aspects produce meat for the market. All producers have the same types of concerns. It is important to have good animal husbandry and this course will help all to secure the future for goat producers.

A complete schedule will be posted soon. A modest cost of $15.00 per day helps to cover the costs of the program. An individual may sign up for the days they would like to attend. If an individual attends all three days, a certificate of completion for the Midwest Goat Producers Course will be awarded.

YOUTH GOAT CAMPS

DAIRY CAMP: SHANNON ELLIS

MARKET CAMP: TERRY BURKS

“2022 is our third year for the Market Youth Goat Camp with Terry Burks. He has helped build an event that the parents and youth really look forward to each year. The families enjoy returning as the kids get more experienced.”

It is an exciting year in 2022. We have had such a great response to the Market Goat Camp, we were asked to have a Dairy Youth Camp, so we said, “YES!” The Midwest Buck Sale announces the addition of the Youth Dairy Goat Camp with Shannon Foster Ellis.

Mrs. Ellis comes highly recommended as an instructor to provide the dairy youth with a specialized course in showmanship, including selection, preparation, and presentation. The kids will have a wonderful time.

We are excited to have Mr. Terry Burks returning as the instructor for the Youth Market Goat Camp. His knowledge and in-depth instruction provide each student with a new perspective and to pair the reasons ‘why’ with functionality. This is a showmanship clinic you don’t want your child to miss. Kids are already signed up for a third year, with Mr. Burks. Siblings are now getting old enough to participate and it is a few days of family fun.

We have a great week planned for some family fun!

Sign Up Today!

Please use the website form to enter the parent information.

Please use the form on the website, to enter the information for the youth attending.

publish, that each child will receive, along with a personalized t-shirt to wear the first day to camp.

Other fun activities are the Obstacle Course, Scavenger Hunt, Puzzles and Games, along with a Pizza Party the first night with the Quiz Bowl. For 2022, we have added a “Best Fitter” award. Please bring a goat unclipped for that part of the event.

One of the best aspects of these camps is that the instructors donate their time. Every entry paid by the child is donated to the Missouri State Fair Foundation, in their name. The Midwest Buck Sale provides a banner to the MO state Fair Foundation listing the children that attend each camp. The banner is hung each year during the state fair. The donated funds are earmarked for the new goat pavilion, and these same children will continue to show and show through their lifetime.

2022 is our third year for the Market Youth Goat Camp with Terry Burks. He has helped build an event that the parents and youth really look forward to each year. The families enjoy returning as the kids get more experienced.

Entry fee is $125.00.

Limited to 30 children in each camp. The camp is filling up fast and we expect it to be full soon.

ALL CAMPER: Come and Have Fun!

Rules for attendance: Children 8 years old to 18 years old, on the day of the camp are eligible to enter.

Check in before unloading.

Health papers even if in state resident.

Children check in 8:00 – 8:30 am at the Youth Goat Camp Red Canopy by the office.

We start at 9:00 am each morning

Lunch is noon to 1:00pm

Our intentions: Showmanship is a competition. Children in particular, can be easily distracted by parents, trying to coach their children over the rail, on the sidelines. When parents coach from the sidelines, their child is focused on them. If a parent remarks, or reaches over the rail, it is a distraction for their child and all the other children in the arena. Other parents will also have a reaction. At the camps, we avoid this situation by asking parents to be otherwise occupied when the children are in the arena practicing, until the final showmanship. We ask parents to not set in the bleachers or stand at the railing. We do not deprive the parents from watching from afar. This is an opportunity for your child to grow. We hope all will respect what the intentions are of the camps, which is for your children to connect with the instructor and learn from them, with no distractions. Our committees work hard to provide a wonderful and memorable experience for your children, creating an environment that is inviting and will give them lasting connections with their peers. Opportunities for parents to work along side their children are during the hands on grooming/fitting segment, and selection, where the parents learn about selection with the children. Please check the Midwest Buck Sale website for the scheduled opportunities, such as the A.I. Clinic, FAMACHA, Speakers on Nutrition, and much more. (schedule will be updated through the end of January).

Parents are required to attend a short meeting with our USDA representative on the scrapie program updates and tracking of diseases, bio security, June 3, (tentatively) (kids are practicing in the arena)

We ask parents to attend other workshops and speakers during the practice sessions so the kids are focused on the instructors when they are in the arena.

Goats for Camp: Two head. Market Camp: Pick one example: Two Wethers, or Two Does, or One Wether and One Doe, all should have their milk teeth or be under 125 pounds. No adult stock.

Dairy Camp: Pick one example: Children should bring what they have. Please try to have the goat in proportion to the child (small child=smaller goat, Taller, larger child=larger goat).

This does not include stock for other events, and these animals may be entered in other shows, evaluations, or the sale. Enter through the forms online. Pay promptly to secure the spot.

Limited to thirty in each camp (total of 60 youth).

Children that win the Champion Showmanship belt buckle in their respective age group, may return the following year. The child must move up into the next division to participate again. This only applies to the overall Champion in their age group. The Youth Goat Camp will provide professional photographs. YGC uses them for promotional ads and articles on the websites. Parents are welcome to use all photographs of their children, for personal use.

Caribbean, through Florida, and onto Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia. In the west, the goat trail runs from Mexico to California and Texas. So we have a mix of origins and possibly a little interbreeding in the middle. Remember that goats never received much documented attention, so the history is hard to verify, but Spanish goats in this country show their DNA to be of Iberian origin.

For the next couple of centuries the goats were used for milk, meat, hair, and hides. The goats survived well with minimal management, and those that became feral survived with no human management at all. They adapted well to their regions, and natural selection was the norm, producing a breed of goat that was an exceptionally well-adapted survivor.

Goats were some of the last animals to captivate the interest of large-scale livestock breeders and commercial markets.

Complete story: spanishgoat.org

History of the Spanish Goat breed

In the 16th century the Spanish came to the Americas, bringing goats.

We can assume that the goats chosen for Spain's early trips overseas represented the average all-purpose Spanish goat before selective breeding and breed differentiation became popular. We might guess that the Royal Purse would pay for top-quality goats to send on such a voyage, but chances are that no one in Spain had a 'better quality' goat to sell. Cattle and sheep gained fairly early popularity with selective breeders in Europe, and would show on livestock census reports, but goats have been overlooked for centuries—a goat was just a goat, and would not have been particularly noticed or documented beyond its immediate use until 300 years later.

Still, we should not be deceived by the simplicity of the goats brought to the Americas. They originated in the days of natural sustainable agriculture, and represented genetic lines that could stand up to the simple care and knowledge of the 1500's. This guaranteed that only the hardest goats survived to breed. Spanish goats in the Americas are now some of the few goats that still reflect the ancient, efficient Spanish genes—it has become increasingly difficult to find such goats, even in Spain. But until British voyagers hit America, Spanish goats were the only goats we had.

Let's focus on the Spanish goats that made their way to what is now the United States. The Spanish colonized the Americas from both sides. They left a goat trail. Some goats were brought from Spain to the

This is a National competition and a stock evaluation, over-all, as they fit the phenotype of the Boer Goat, divided by color coat and pattern. We will use the term “American Kalahari Red” for the solid red goats. White/Grey Boer Goats will be classified as Savanna.

Dividing stock by color coat gives the stock an opportunity to be evaluated by like animals. The Boer, Savanna, Kalahari Red, are all animals developed by selection, it is by phenotype. We are thankful that the South African Boer people took the time to develop the stock and our event is the opportunity for those American breeders that want a fair comparison of their stock, where they truly are being compared. Our mission isn't to tell anyone else what to do, but to bring people together that can share their information and help others on their way. If you want to help, join the fun, because that is what it is. It is a learning opportunity. The point of this is to acknowledge the breeder. We want you to bring your stock. What you use as production stock, and the kids you raise as replacement stock. You will share your lineage of goats. At the same time, we show how everyone can work together to move a phenotype forward, based upon selection. Sharing ideas about management, feeding, and genetics used are part of the event along with so much more.

GROOMING: Grooming is limited to washing, drying, and clipping. No product, other than simple spray oil on the horns and hooves, is allowed. Fly spray is allowed. No other chemicals are allowed. No adhesives, baby powder, no external products other than mentioned above on horns and hooves.

We appreciate everyone participation in this rule for the Boer Goat Congress.

CLASSES: Classes are divided by sex and then tooth rule and weight.

DOES MUST HAVE KIDDED BY TWO YEARS OLD

MILK TOOTH: All baby teeth are in place. No primaries have erupted.

All entries are weighed. Classes will be grouped and divided, not to exceed a minimum of 10 pounds and a maximum of 20 pounds.

YEARLING: First two permanent teeth will be erupted.

Entries will be weighed and not exceed 50 pounds difference for class.

TWO YEAR OLD: Four permanent adult teeth will be visible, or erupting in the correct order. Does must have kidded by this time or exhibit being in production by carrying at the time of the evaluation. Sonograms are not admissible. Visual inspection and determination by the judge is final.

SENIOR: Six tooth and older. Does must be in productive and show signs of kidding.

Yearling Does: Set of Three Object is to have three yearling does that are consistent and best represent the breed.

One entry fee of $15.00 for the class. Enter online Must be penned together through the event.

Entry fee: $15.00

If selling, they will sell three X (times) the money and the 7% commission is charged as it would be on any other entry.

They enter the arena to sell together.

Best Doe & Kid(s) Any age Doe with kid(s) still obviously nursing on the does side. Age limit on age for the kid is 3 months (90 days). Kids will have to be weighed after check in.

All general Boer Goat standards apply

Stock are evaluated loose. The judges do not know who owns the stock. Handlers are provided in the arena and breeders watch from the sidelines.

This is a fun and exciting way to have stock evaluated. It is judging, just like any other show, with a twist. You set on the side lines and learn to evaluate the stock by the standard.

National titles and awards for the winners. Come have some fun. We want you to bring the stock you raise.

Stock may arrive WEDNESDAY, MAY 31, after 5:00 pm. When entering, please include a $5.00 pen fee. Stock must be in place Friday noon.

Health papers are required from the state of origin, even if originating from Missouri. USDA will be on premise.
